THE NATIONAL LEAGUE
ITS SUPPRESSION IN DUBLIN AND MARRIAGE

The Mistake Made by Salisbury and His

Grand Demonstration in Favor of Gladstone by the Garibaldian Association

LONDON, January 3.—There seems to be no doubt the Government have determined to suppress the National League in Dublin at once. As it is already proclaimed in the four counties, the Government can suppress it at any time with the consent of the Privy Council. That is practically the Government intention. This is aimed at the Central Executive League sitting in Dublin.

GAGGING THE OPPOSITION.
It is strange that Salisbury and his party should be so anxious to suppress the National League in Dublin, and yet so anxious to suppress the National League in London.

Balfour, cannot see that in waging war against the League they are fighting a nation and will only strengthen instead of destroy the influence of their opponents. While the Government are suppressing the liberty speech in Ireland they are concerning measures for gagging their opponents of the House of Commons. Already they are dissatisfied with their own amendments to the rule procedure, which are not deemed stringent enough, although when Gladstone previously proposed far milder measures for defeating obstruction the Tories raised a t mendous outcry, saying that meant the end of the political liberties of Englishmen. Salisbury will now propose that at the committee stage all bills shall go to the grand committees, instead of to the House as a whole, and also an earlier hour for the meeting of the House, probably 3 o'clock, with one hour for dinner and a fixed hour for closing, probably midnight. These proposals will probably be acceptable to the majority of the House, although the rule of midnight closing would give increased opportunities for chagrin to as members could talk out bills. But a severe struggle is likely to ensue if the Government persist in their determination to increase the penalties of members incurring the displeasure of the Speaker. It is generally admitted by impartial judges that the present Speaker is not sufficiently judicial, and his decisions in some cases make it difficult to answer the contention of the Parnellites that he cannot understand that the Irish members have the same rights and privileges as their English colleagues.

THE THUNDERER'S CENTENNIAL.
The Times celebrated its hundredth anniversary yesterday, and published congratulatory telegrams amounting in all to exactly t from obscure Vienna papers. The fact is that the Times has never been greatly beloved, even by its own friends. It has a knack of supporting them until their cause is lost, and then going over to the enemy. It is a commiseration saying here that a cause that incurs the hostility of the Times is on the high road to victory.

No paper was so conspicuous here as the organ of slave owners during the American war. Cobden declared that when the battle of free trade was won he was hampered by the support of the Times, which he would much rather be without.

THE YEAR'S BUSINESS.
Trade during last year in England, on the whole, has been satisfactory. The depression of lace manufacture at Nottingham has continued, but cotton, coal, and a large number of other industries have shown an improvement on the previous year's number patents, the unprecedented fees under Chamberlain's act being merely nominal.

POPE LEO.

Congratulations From Various Sovereigns Receiving Enthusiastic Deputations.
Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.
ROME, January 3.—The Shah of Persia has sent the Rome a telegram in which he expresses his congratulations and expresses his admiration for the Pontiff. The King and Queen of Roumania and the Federal Council of Switzerland have also sent congratulations. The Peter's Pence collected on the occasion of the Jubilee Mass is nearly 80,000 francs. When the International Deputation to the Jubilee Festivities was received the Pope, the members, 300 in all, pressed around that he was almost suffocated.

The noble cards had to be called in to the enthusiasm of the visitors. The Hungarian deputation was worthy of note, owing to the speech of Cardinal Hannold, who in his answer dwelt especially on the religious and philosophical course which ought to be followed.

ent associations. It is thought that on this occasion his Holiness will deliver a political address. The Czar sent a telegram of congratulation to the Pope on the 31st of December from Gatchina.

GLADSTONE IN ITALY.
The Great Demonstration by the Garibaldi Association at Florence.
Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

FLORENCE, January 3.—The demonstration which has taken place here in honor of Mr Gladstone was of the most interesting character. More than a thousand members of the Garibaldian Association went to the apartments occupied by the great English statesman.

ments occurred by the great English statesman. They arrived just as he was leaving the house with his daughter. He was at once surrounded by a large crowd of sympathizers who repeatedly burst into cries of "Long Live Gladstone," "Long Live Ireland."

Subsequently, Mr. Gladstone received deputation, and an address of welcome was read, in which he was spoken of as the representative of that generous nation which had welcomed Italy.

country. The address also contained a conclusion to the good effected by the disestablishment of the Irish Church, by the education act and the Irish land act. It gratefully recalled the spirit of the century of the ex-P

THE BULGARIAN SITUATION IS NOT VERY FAVORABLE FOR PRINCE FERDINAND. THE TIME IS APPROACHING FOR ANOTHER ABDICATION AND ANOTHER ATTEMPT TO SELECT A RULER WHO SHALL BE ACCEPTABLE TO THE Czar.

It now remains for Messrs. GOULD buy things from himself with money belonging to somebody else and to pay more than the market value for the same.

THE VERY ANCIENT MR. CHARLES DANA OF NEW YORK HAS BEEN ACCUSING SOMEBODY OF STEALING HIS EDITORIALS. IF THIS CHARGE IS TRUE, THE PLAGIARIST IN THE CASE SHOULD BE PUT IN AN INSANE ASYLUM TO RECOVER HIS MIND.

his purpose to win over enough Republi-is probable that St. John is still able to make himself felt in an emergency.

PRESIDENT GALENA, IN HIS REPORT TO THE DIRECTORS OF THE MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, TRIES TO BRING UP THE DARK OUTLOOK FOR CHEAPER BRIDGE TRANSIT AND CHEAPER RIVER TRANSPORT BY SAYING THAT "THESE GREAT ENTERPRISES ARE IN SAFE HANDS, AND WE RELY UPON THE WELL-KNOWN DEVOTION AND ZEAL OF

"those gentlemen for prompt action in these matters; and it is presumed that every arrangement is now made, or being made, to insure the completion of these works so much needed, and for which we cannot much longer wait." This is a rather risky denial of waiting powers that have challenged the world's wonder for these many years.

THE TWO REPORTS.

Commissioner LITTLE and ANDERSON agree with Commissioner PATTERSON in pointing out the gross frauds and violations of law that have characterized the management of the Pacific Railroad. They agree with him in insisting that the legal proceedings for the punishment of flagrant abuses of trust, and to compel the restitution of the proceeds of frauds and embezzlements, should be part of any final adjustment of the Government's relations to these companies. It is only on the question of how to secure the amount due on the Government loan that a difference arose among the Commissioners.

ANDERSON and LITTLE in their majority report propose a funding scheme to secure the Government by extending the debt on a contract mortgage, to be given in addition to the existing statutory lien, and covering the terminals, lines, branches and other property which that lien does not cover. They call attention to the fact that, if the Government could now foreclose and take possession of the roads, which it cannot do until the debt matures in 1895, it would have to take lines without terminals at Omaha, Kansas City or on the Pacific coast, the companies having managed to keep their terminals as separate properties free from the lien.
The proposed scheme includes a sinking fund sufficient to redeem the fifty-year, 3-per-cent bonds to be given for the amount now owing on the Government loan, the contract mortgage for the security of these bonds is covering all the property and assets of the companies and authorizing the Government to foreclose for the whole amount in default of stipulated payments, and to begin proceedings at any time against officers, directors or agents of the companies for misappropriation or mismanagement.

This is by far the best funding scheme yet proposed. It aims to provide better security and a tangible advantage for the Government in exchange for an extension of its loan. Nor does the proposition include anything that smacks of compounding past felonies, frauds or breaches of trust. On the contrary the contract mortgage seems to provide for better means of redress in all such cases.

Commissioner PATTERSON, however, considering the utter failure of the Government to make any attempt to enforce its existing legal remedies in the past, seems to think the proposed new ones would be as inert and valueless. He shows that the six Pacific lines, which cost $60,000,000, have been loaded with $288,000,000 of fraudulent stocks and bonds; that there was a swindle of $42,000,000 in the construction contracts; and that the Government aid in money and land to these roads was equivalent to $447,000,000, or $633,000,000 more than they cost. He shows that four men, STANFORD, HUNTINGTON, HOR-KINS and CROCKER, divided among themselves $142,000,000 of diverted cash and securities, and justly says the management of all the Pacific roads "has been a national disgrace." He therefore thinks that they will find a way to evade the remedies of the new funding scheme, and to make it a cloak for further extortion and fraud. So he recommends that Congress should raise above the consideration of dollars and cents and treat the case as one of outrageous justice, revoking the charters of the roads and throwing them into the hands of receivers that civil and criminal proceedings may be promptly instituted against all persons who participated in fraudulent mortgages and stock issues or other forms of misappropriation or mis-administration.

But a few weeks elapsed after a mailing clerk was generously rewarded for successfully defending a Southern Pacific train against train robbers before Express-Messenger GRIMSHAW defeated an assault of robbers on a train, with the assistance of Baggage-Master SPAN-NOW. The $500 given to the former and the $250 to the latter were not lavish rewards, but a wise investment. If half the money expended by railroad and express companies in capturing and prosecuting train robbers had been put into a fund to be expended in liberal rewards to successful defenders of trains, or in liberal benefits for the families of trainmen killed or disabled in defending trains, it would have saved the companies a vast amount of money.

Time Flies.

"Caeser" in Boston Herald.
How "Age steals on." Caeser was in an up-town street car a morning or two since, and next him sat a man of perhaps 30, of magnificent physique and possessing a mustache which the most dashing cavalry colonel might covet. At his side sat a bright little boy of about 8 years, apparently on his way to school. They had evidently had some talk about the war, for the little fellow said:
"Papa, when was the battle of Antietam?"
"Why," said the father, "I don't know exactly; it was some time in the early part of the war." "But," persisted the boy, "don't you remember it, papa?" "Remember it?
No, my boy, I don't. I couldn't have been more than 4 or 5 years old when it was fought.
Ask your granddaddy. He remembers it." And then Caeser fell into a train of very serious thought. Can it be that there are men grown, with children old enough to attend school and ask questions, who don't know about the war, and who, when the battle of Antietam was fought, men so whom the details of the war were as much a matter of history as are the details of the Mexican war to Caeser? He was alive when they were fighting at Cerro Gordo, at Chapultepec and at Moine de Rey, but which of these fights was a victory for our side he has not at the present moment the least idea, nor does he take enough interest in the matter to look it up.

But can it be that we are getting so far away from the war, the memory of which was burned into his older fellows, that there are grown men who have not thought it worth while to inform themselves in a detailed way about it? "Age steals on," indeed.

What Both Parties Promised.

Republican Platform 1884. Democratic Platform 1884.
That change is necessary is proved by an existing salary of more than $100,000,000, which has been collected from a suffering people. Unecessary taxation is unjust taxation. "The Democratic party is pledged to revise the tariff in a spirit of fairness to all interests."

It is believed that the new law will result in a reduction of the duties on nearly all the demanded and feasible.
"It will probably be found that a general
can be made on the raw material, or on the finished manufactures, rather than to raise the tariff on the finished articles, which would be an increase of taxes on the consumer."

A Few-Line Epile.

From the St. Louis Express.
Not to make a mistake the Express has best to correct one. For years we have been obliged to rectify the error of the June-bug idyl. Against the marauding mineral end-men and unscrupulous newspaper paragraphers we have argued that Donald Padman, the very brilliant wit of the Louisville Courier-Journal, wrote the poem.
We are not obliged to rectify from our contention that the gem first appeared in the "This and That" column of the Courier-Journal. We have lately received the most positive proof of that fact, but with the added information that it was contributed by Edward C. Colgan, the editor of the Elizabethton (Ky.) Messenger, as the New York World asserted the other day. And this is vouched for as the authentic form of the classic:

The June-bug has a gaudy wing;
The lightning bug has flame;
The bed-bug has no friends at all,
But he gets them from his name.

The most important change from the version the Express always has insisted upon is found in the italicized word. We congratulate Mr.
Colgan and regret that his fame did not find him sooner. We would rather have written that poem than found the Baccarat clipper.

The Interstate Commerce Commission Overwhelmed.

From the Philadelphia Record.
One hundred and ten thousand books, papers and documents showing rates, fares and charges, and the management and arrangements between carriers in relation to interstate traffic have been filed in the office of the Interstate Commerce Commission. In its annual report that body admits that it has been unable to do more than acknowledge the receipt of these papers and to classify and index them. The organization of a general system through which these documents might be made useful has not been attempted. No investigation of their contents has been made except that of ascertaining what extent the provisions of the act to regulate commerce have been complied with. The Commission has been completely overwhelmed by the multiplicity of rates and the magnitude of that work. It cannot begin to revise the schedules of rates, and it is unable to classify and index the rates. A colossal task may be accepted by the country as a guarantee of protection from interference by the Commission with trade.

Unpleasant Northwestern Phenomenon.

From the Kansas City Times.
While Mr. Blaine's friends are casting about for an organ in Chicago, they ought not to neglect the situation in St. Paul. The Pioneer Press does not appear to carry any fill bill.
This "rising above party" is getting uncomfortably numerous.

MEN OF MARK.

JOHN Q. ADAMS is a candidate for Congress in Northern Michigan.

CAPT. MACKENZIE, the chess champion of the United States, is now in Cuba.

W. W. CONNORAN sent $1,000 as a Christmas gift to the Charleston Confederate Home.

WALTER BUELL of the local staff was made city editor of the Detroit Free Press last week.

M. WILSON GIBSON, a son of the great historian, is lecturing in Paris on Edmund Burke and Milton.

The Marquis de Lerne has determined upon a literary life and has a serial ready for an English magazine.

MAYOR O'BRIEN of Boston is so ill as to be confined to his room. His physicians think that erysipelas is threatened.

BOUVIN, the painter whose death occurred in Paris last week, died from starvation. He was an ascetic man, who reduced himself to poverty by his brusqueness to his patrons.

HERMANN EATMAN, a Walworth (N. Y.) farm laborer, gets the prize Christmas present of the year, a fortune of $30,000 from a childless uncle who died recently in New Mexico.

MR. WILSON L. WARREN, who has been for nearly twenty years on the staff of the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, during most of which time he was a leading editorial writer, died last Friday evening in his 41st year.

THOMAS BACON, or "Uncle Tim" as he is generally called, is living at Barre, Mass., in his 41st year. He attributes his longevity to his Jacksonian Democracy. He says he will be contented if he can only live to see a Democratic President elected in 1888.

HARRIS POSNER, the German tragedian, made his American debut on Tuesday night in New York. In appearance he greatly resembles Edwin Booth, but is perhaps a little more powerful and dour. His features are graceful and his voice is of singular charm.

ONE TALLAFORDE—not the Confederate General, however—is the latest inventor of perpetual motion. He lives in Atlanta and has already applied for the rewards offered by various governments to the discoverer of this principle in mechanics.

THORPSON TILLOT is living in a remote corner of Paris by no means affluent circumstances. His dress is almost shabby and with his hair hanging about his shoulders he presents a peculiar appearance as he walks about the streets of the French capital. He does a little literary work now and then, but writes with no regularity.

Mrs. CALHOUN, the popular writer of the New York Ledger, was "shot to pieces" in the war, but he still strides around with martial energy. He was an officer in a regiment of Kentucky Unionists, commanded first by his father, who was killed, subsequently by his uncle, who was also slain.

WOMEN OF THE WORLD.

A KANSAS WOMAN wants to start a children's rights' association and make large families fashionable again.

At a sale of autographs recently at Berlin a letter of Sarah Bernhardt sold for $50, while one of the Emperor William went for $20 only.

Mrs. CLARA S. HAYES and Miss Nellie B.
Rawson have received the degree of Master of Domestic Economy (M. D. E.) from the Iowa Agricultural College.

A GREAT deal of gossip in Paris has been the outcome of the fact that Mrs. James Brown Potter and Sarah Bernhardt took breakfast together at the Hotel de la Paix.

Mrs. HORTENSE SELLER, the millionaire resident of Barrington, Mass., has purchased a large tract of land at Block Island, and intends building a handsome house there before next summer.

Mrs. KILPATRICK, widow of Gen. Judson Kilpatrick, has concluded not to return to Chillicothe, the place of her nativity and old home, but with her two daughters, will live at "The Homestead," the General's late residence, near Deerfoot, N. J.

F. A. MERRILL, called by certain African tribes "Little Livingston," has come to this country from Bechuanaland to sell a valuable collection of elephant tusks. He says that the Queen of Bechuanaland, with whom England has just completed a treaty, is the original of Hagard's "She." She is a handsome woman in feature and not very dark in complexion.

MISS ANNA H. WHITEHEAD, the proprietor of the famous Kennerly at Lancaster, Mass., is said to be the head of mastiff breeders in this Whitehead gave up her vocation of school teaching, which she had followed for thirty years, and went to Europe, where she secured the stock obtainable, and thus started the Lancaster Kennels.

Mrs. FORTNESS DUNN of Arkansas has re-

ABOUT TOWN.

CLAYTON BUCKNER, a friendless German 23 years of age, was found dead this morning in the rear of his garage.

An inquest was held to-day on the body of Louis Meyer, the beer-wagon driver who dropped dead at 6 o'clock last evening at Grove's Brewery, Twenty-second street and Clark avenue. Heart disease was the verdict.

BERNARD LUDER, 198, United Order of Honor, held its semi-annual election at the Jefferson Hall Thursday evening last, at which the following officers were elected: Geo. O. Hough, President; E. M. Parks, Vice President; J. F. Ford, Secretary; Mrs. M. White, Guard; J. H. Hough, Treasurer; J. H. Hough, Auditor; J. H. Hough, Librarian; J. H. Hough, Chaplain; J. H. Hough, Steward; J. H. Hough, Sergeant-at-Arms; J. H. Hough, Deacons; J. H. Hough, Trustees; J. H. Hough, Members.

A very pleasant meeting was held and no names proposed for membership. This lodge, although young, ranks second to the largest in membership in this city.
